Agreement

By signing, you are registering for voting membership in Altonimbus Entertainment for the 2017 term, and pledging a commitment as a volunteer staff member for Kumoricon 2017. Your registration for both is not complete until we ratify it after meeting the requirements (see reverse). Voting membership status is governed by the bylaws of Altonimbus Entertainment. Staff status may be terminated at will by either you or us. Unless informed otherwise, your staff status lasts through the 2017 convention as well as past the convention as needed or as agreed upon to fulfill the duties of your position(s), some of which may be year-round. It does not automatically renew for 2018. While you are staff, you are expected to follow the full staff policies, which we may amend without prior notice. You must also uphold your confidentiality obligations past the duration of your staff status in order to remain in good standing with us. Your contractual rights and obligations will not be changed without your affirmative consent.

Staff Policies Summary

1. Get permission before spending money.

All spending is budgeted. Staff may not spend money for Kumoricon without prior approval from their director or manager. Reimbursement requires written approval and itemized receipts.

2. Don't make promises without prior approval.

Staff may not sign contracts or make verbal or written promises to outside parties without prior approval from their director or manager. This includes negotiations beyond an introduction, and reaching out to other businesses, industry, guests, or press.

3. Avoid speaking on behalf of the con without permission.

This rule can be tricky, and staff need to be careful. Staff are not allowed to speak as representatives for the convention without permission. This includes speaking to the press and making any statement visible to the public, in whatever format, including web posts and social media comments. Even if you are not using any official organization resources, if it is known to the public that you are staff, your statements can be interpreted as official statements. If in doubt, please ask your director or our Publicity department for guidance.

4. Keep confidential information private.

It's ok to talk to people outside the con about the work you do for the con, and what your job is like. But certain information is sensitive and should only be shared with staff who have a genuine need to know. If you aren't sure, it's your responsibility to ask your supervisor about what is sensitive. Certain things are always treated as very sensitive:

- a) Personally identifiable information about attendees, including but not limited to attendee or member databases, addresses, email addresses, phone numbers, or birthdates
- b) Disputes or incident reports involving staff or attendees
- c) Department or organization budgets
- d) Identities or details of guests of honor, industry guests, or partners which have not been publicly announced
- e) The existence or details of venue contracts which have not been publicly announced
- f) Any type of information planned for announcement at a later date or time
- g) Any type of information that we are treating as sensitive or confidential

5. Honor your staff commitment.

Joining staff means you're pledging a commitment that lasts through the next upcoming convention. Some of your work obligations might be pre-con, and some might be at-con. You're also promising to be available during emergencies and shortages during the times you are on site. If you hold more than one position, then it's your responsibility to make sure you communicate time conflicts in advance.

6. Keep in contact.

Keep in communication with your manager or director. Not sure about something, or what to do next? Ask!

7. Set a good example.

People will make judgments about the entire convention based on the actions of a single staff member. Show the world—and your fellow staff—your best.

8. Follow the code of conduct and staff policies.

The full staff policies are available to registered staff on the website, along with additional staff training and resources. The attendee code of conduct is publicly available on the website. The board may change these rules without prior notice. You will be notified if we make changes that change any expectations we have of you.

9. For managers only...

Managers and executive-level staff are subject to additional policies and required training. After you register, you may be given a date by which you must complete these to maintain your manager-level or executive-level staff status.

Privacy notice

Staff members may be listed publicly by name and position. Staff member names, positions, email addresses, phone numbers, and cities are listed in a directory only accessible to current staff members. We may take your photo when you register as staff, or when you check in at the convention. Your photo is displayed to all staff up and down your chain of command, and to all convention executives. You may change a privacy setting to make your photo visible to the entire staff. Staff members who have positions reporting to them may also access the email addresses of previous staff to ensure registration invitation emails are sent to the correct address.

Registration Requirements

1. You have completed and signed the form.
2. You are signing up for a specific position, initialed by the director for each position.
3. The staff quiz (see pages 3 and 4) is attached, unless you took it in a previous year.

A few other things...

- Staff registration covers your convention entrance. You don't need to pay or register as an attendee separately.

- All Kumoricon staff are unpaid volunteers—even the top executives and board of directors.

Staff Quiz

You must take this quiz to complete your staff registration (unless you already took it since 2013). This quiz can also be taken interactively in the private staff section of the website as many times as you want, if you would like to review the answers later. These questions are based on the convention code of conduct and the staff policies, and answers can be found therein. These two documents are publicly available on the Kumoricon website. Your staff registration will be approved even with some incorrect answers as long as the quiz is complete.
